VIRGINIA'S EXHIBIT

AT HER SECOND GRAND DISPLAY.

There Were Many Thousand Present.-The Result of the Races and the Entries for To-Day-The Grounds at Night,

There was an excellent attendance at the Exposition yesterday, particularly in the afternoon. Those who went out before dinner did so to witness the racing. while the afternoon thousands were bent on seeing the sights and witnessing "Paris and the Commune' at night. The races proved an attractive drawing card, and the field held some pretty animals. Swelldom, of course, occupied the grandstand, and the maidens became enthusiastic and snapped their gloves in ecstacy if the second trotter would steal up to first.

On both sides of the fence along the stretch there was a solid mass of humanity, while not a few carriages occupied places near the judges' stand.

In the main hall throughout the after-In the main hall throughout the afternoon there was the same rush apparent, and the unceasing promenading of pedestrians kept up a perfect beat to the flying of the seconds. In the music hall the acrobats gave their feats, and the eat orchestra delighted hundreds.

Morris' illusions caused interest and wonderment, and the bicycle acrobats over at the race-track did an interesting act that well filled out the "waits" between the heats.

THE POULTRY SHOW,

Just over by the Battle of the Crater fence is the poultry hall, and there yesterday was opened the poultry and pigeon show. It is a splendid exhibit—one of the best, if not the best in the whole Exposition, and there was most favorable comment made upon the prond rooster, the cackling hen, the Thanksgiving turkey, the white duck, and the many, many cooing pairs of pigeons. There is a large number of varieties, and they make a splendid showing.

The racing yesterday was very good. A slight shower fell about 4 o'clock, and a cold wind blew most of the time. A

First heat—At the first quarter John A. led the field, with Comet a pushing second. It was a pretty clip both animals had struck. At the half Comet's white nose forged ahead, giving John A. second place. They went down the second hap nip and tuck, while Acca went off his feet. When the three-quarter pole was passed, John A. led the field, with Comet in for second money. The bay stallion kept his neck ahead and passed under the wire a good winner. Edith Almont in the stretch went up to second and John A. passed under a third. Sigma fourth and Acca, who broke often, fifth. After the heat John A. was put back to fifth for running. Time, 2:31.

Second heat—Comet playing a title role, shot through the air at the start and was soon leading the field. At the quarter the gelding still led, with Edith Almont close up behind. The awards were made yesterday for the county exhibits. The contest was very close between Chesterfield, which has heretofore carried off nearly all the laurels, and Bedford county, which makes an exhibit for the first time. There were few unoccupied sents at the Paris exhibition last evening. Only at the rear ends of the benches were the pine boards bare of humanity, and the pine boards bare of humanity, and the audience was well pleased, particularly with the pyrotechnical display. During the progress of the spectacle the phantoms in fancy and trick riding appear; Major Magnire does feats of horsemanship; Will Martell acts on the slack rope; Burko and West amuse on the trapeze; the Hogan brothers do some good wrestling; the four Pinards show some acrobatic feats, and the whole concludes with one of the most beautiful displays of firsworks ever seen in Richard.

Richmond.

While the Paris exhibition is in progress the main hall is entirely deserted, and the few people who remain to watch their booths have a lenely time of it.

They hall with delight the return of the crowd to the building, and for half an hour the scene is fully alive. Many of those immediately make a bee-line for a wt gon, cab or carriage, and soon Broad street is the scene of a race that can be seen at no other time.

GIVE US WATER.

There is still a cry for water in the main hall of the building. Cannot the management place two coolers, one near the main entrance and one in the western wing for the accommodations of ladies and children? When one is thirsty they hardly care to quench their thirst with soda-water or sarsaparilla.

Judges were busy yesterday putting the blue ribbon to many excellent articles exhibited, and many firms and citizens having goods in the main hall are quite proud of their achievements.

It grew dark soon at the grounds yesterday, caused by overhanging clouds, and even before the races were over the electric lights—sparkled and spluttered GIVE US WATER.

AT MOORE-MEMORIAL.

AT MOORE-MEMORIAI.

Moore-Memorial church was the scene yesterday afternoon of an unusually pretty and attractive wedding. The cards previously issued announcing the approaching marriage of Mr. Walter C. Mercer to Miss Elizabeth Walker, on this occasion caused their large circle of friends and acquaintances to be in a state of pleasant expectancy, and at 5:30 P. M., when the bridal party arrived, the church was filled to overflowing. The entire chancel was tastefully covered with palms and ferns, and Key. Dr. Sprigg performed the impressive ceremony. Miss Eunice Walker, the bride's sister, was maid of horor, and Miss M. Iggie Hall was the only other bridesmaid. They were preceded in the march to the chancel by six ushers, and the bride, leaning on the arm of the groom, followed to the altar. They retired in reverse order, and the entire ceremony was handsomely and elegantly conducted.

Dr. William F. Mercer, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and was assisted by the following ushers: Alex. Walker, brother of the bride, Stewart Woodward, Ashby Ragland, Willie Paynter, Clyde B. West and William B.

AMERICAN CHURCH S S. Triennial Meeting-Inaugural Address by Bishop Paret.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 12.-Special.-The At 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in St. James' church Mr. Conway Harrison triennial meeting of the American Church Sunday School was fairly started this after-Gordon and Miss Kate Randolph Brown were married, surrounded by number-less friends. The altar was illumined by an arc of standing lamps, whose soft shades of yellow and orange fell upon rich decorations of ferns and palms and banks of roses that breathed away their noon. Its meetings are always held during the session of the General Convention. Right Rev.Ozi W. Whitaker, Bishop of Pennsylvania, is president of the institute for 1802-33, but he was not present at the opening meeting. The inaugural address was made by Right Rev. William Paret, Bishop of Maryland, who made two important suggestions. "There are," he said, "two great defects that I have frequently encountered in inspecting Sunday-school The bridal party was formed at the door, and coming up the centre aisle, were met at the chancel by Rev. Landon R. Mason, who performed the cereenccuntered in inspecting Sunday-school work. One of these is the difficulty with the teacher of bringing home the class in-struction to bear immediately upon the de-The ushers were followed by Master Richard Fox, Jr., and little Miss Meta Randolph, daughter of Major Norman V. Randolph. They were dressed in vout and prayerful life of each child. The teachers often do nothing for the personal defects of children. There should be some knowledge of the character of the child white and carried boutonmeres of chrysauthenums.

Miss Lillian Yarbrough, the maid of honor, came next, dressed in a pearlgray crepe de chine, and carrying a lovely bouquet of La France roses. The bride elect, leaning upon the arm of Mr. James Fox, who gave her away, then came. The bride was beautifully dressed in a soft, gray ladies' cloth dress trimmed with steel ornaments, which made, if at home. The second defect is that our discussions and plans are too largely devoted to work in cities and the large towns, where it is easy to arcuse the enthusiasm that comes with numbers. There are parishes in this State 120 miles square with not even a village in them, where the people are so poor that they come to church in ox-carts. Parish after parish of this kind is without a Sunday tolked. How then can we reach with steel ornaments, which made, if possible, more pronounced the loveliness of her face and figure.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. C. a Sunday school. How, then, can we reach the children? Not always through the parents, for these are sometimes worse than the children. I have tried the experiment of establishing classes, if not schools, and I believe this plan is capable of being put in successful operation. E. Mr. George C. Thomas, chairman of the executive committee, gave a sketch of the history of the institute, which started as a cesan organization in Philadelphia twenty years ago, and twelve years ago was broadened into a general society. Mr. Thomas alluded in his address to the international series of Sunday-school lessons, and stated that the institute is not in favor of their use.
